PRIMARY

Passes Off Quietly And Splendid Ticket Nominated. Ford Defeats Arnold For County Judge.

The primary held in Garrard county last Saturday passed off quietly although many of the nominations were hotly contested, yet everyone interested seemed in a good humor and each felt confident of the result up to the close of the polls. Great deal of interest was centered in the Judges race, for two more popular men ever ran for office in this county, than Judge C. A. Arnold and Judge A. D. Ford. A majority of 133 lands Judge Ford a winner and he will be Garrard County's Judge for another four years. His fitness for the office is an endorsement by his friends, he having served the county in this capacity for three terms, Judge Arnold succeeding him four years ago. Hogan Ballard for Representative defeated J. A. Beazley by a majority of 212 votes and this splendid majority insures his victory in November. One of the closest races in the county and one that could not be decided until several hours after the polls closed, was the County Clerks race in which there were three entries and all good campaigners and popular in the persons of Jephth Onstott, W. A. Doty and Bruce Lawson. It was a horse race throughout but Doty came out a winner by 25 votes and will carry the banner to further victory in November. "Uncle Dave" Ross will have charge of the jail-birds for another four years, having defeated Mr. Jack Adams by a majority of 83. His friends are congratulating him upon his success and defeating such a vote getter and clever man as Mr. Adams. The Coroner contest proved a runaway race for Mr. Simon Anderson who defeated his opponents easily by a majority of 396 votes. "Booker" Wilkinson coming second and J. H. Smith third. In the Senatorial race H. Clay Kauffman carried the county by 882 majority, which was almost a unanimous vote, Mr. Mount receiving 154 and Mr. Harlan 99. The total number cast in this race being 1234. The table elsewhere shows the vote of the entire county. Mr. A. K. Walker, for Sheriff; Mr. E. B. Ray, for Assessor and Miss Jennie Higgins, for school superintendent, and G. C. Walker for County Attorney, had no opposition in their race for the nomination and were declared the nominees.

EXEMPTION BOARD

Examine Many Men Registered For Service.

Since last Monday morning the local exemption board, composed of G. T. Ballard, Jr., John M. Farra, Dr. J. M. Acton and Dr. Virgil Kinnard have been putting in some hard licks examining the men registered for the Selective Draft and up to this morning had examined about 110 men. A summary of the work of the board for the past three days shows that about three fourths of the men who successfully passed, will file claims for exemptions. Should this practice continue a triple quota may be called for examination instead of the double quota as was at first thought would be enough. It is also a noticeable fact that very few negroes are claiming any exemptions. Of the total number called for examination, three failed to report, 18 have been finally exempted for physical defects and other reasons, 39 have passed and will file exemption papers, for dependent families; 31 have passed physical examinations and have claimed no exemptions, although some of them may do so later for industrial reasons; 15 have been temporarily exempted and are to report back at a later date for re-examination; two had their examinations deferred for being sick, one having been kicked by a mule recently. About 100 more men are to be examined from the first quota of 208 names. Should the list be exhausted before the full quota is acquired, another call will be issued from the list published below, beginning with call number 209.

THE KITCHEN FLAG.

(Atlanta Journal.)

I have nailed a flag in my kitchen
And as it hangs there on the wall
I feel, though I am a woman,
I have answered my country's call.

I am a recruit in the army
That is striving for justice and right,
I am helping to feed a nation
And helping to win the fight.

My bugle--a mockingbird singing
Out in the Magnolia trees,
His song turns to martial music
As it comes o'er the scented breeze.

Sometimes when the air is stifling
And the garden roses invite,
I stick to my range in the trenches
And gallantly wage the fight.

For I think of our boys who are stifling
In that seething hell over there,
And I feel that I'd be just a slacker,
If I should do less than my share.

I know as I go fourth to battle
To the mockingbird's clarion call
I am earning my right as a soldier
To salute the flag on the wall.

I salute the flag in the kitchen
And the mockingbird thrills from
his nest,
While the love of God and my country
Thrills warm within my breast.

Though the boys may fight in the trenches,
I cheerfully give my all
As I do my bit in the kitchen
And salute the flag on the wall.

Word Lunatic in Bible.
The word lunatic is used twice in the New Testament (Matthew 4:24 and 17:15). The word evidently refers to some disease affecting mind and body. By the description given by Mark 9:17-20, it is concluded the disease is epilepsy.

Difficult Achievement.
"My young friends," said a member of the board of trustees, who was addressing the school, "let me urge upon you the necessity of not only reading good books, but also of owning them, so that you may have access to them at all times. Why, when I was a young man I used frequently to work all night to earn money to buy books, and then got up before daylight and read them."

FRUIT SIRUPS.

Juices For Jelly Making Kept Without Sugar Will Need For Them Arises.

Fruit juices for use later in jelly making can be sterilized and bottled without sugar and made into jellies at the housewife's convenience.

This enables her to do with fewer jelly glasses and to distribute her purchases of sugar for jelly making throughout the year. Moreover, with the bottled juice she can make a greater variety of jellies, as juices which will not jell can be put up when the fruit is ripe and combined later with fruits that will jell, or fruit ripening at different seasons can be combined.

For example, the juice of strawberries, cherries or pineapples can be kept without sugar and later, when apples are plentiful, can be made into combination jelly.

From the unsugared sterilized juices of currants, apples, crabapples and grapes, kept from nine to eighteen months, the bureau of chemistry, United States department of agriculture, recently made jellies of excellent texture, flavor and color.

To put up unsugared fruit juices for jelly making proceed exactly as if jelly were to be made at the time. Cook the fruits until they are soft and strain out the juice through a flannel bag.
Heat and pour while hot into bottles previously scalded. Fill the bottles full, leaving no air space between juice and cork or seal. Place the filled sealed bottles on their sides in water near the boiling point and keep them in the bath for about thirty minutes. Make sure that the corked or sealed end is under the hot water. As soon as the bottles are cool cover the cork with a paraffin seal. Thorough sterilization and sealing are absolutely essential to success.

To make jelly from the sterilized juice test its jelling quality, add the proper amount of sugar and proceed as in making jelly from freshly expressed juice.

Wedding Cake.

One pound of butter, one pound of black sugar, one and one-fourth pounds of flour, twelve eggs, six pounds of raisins, five pounds of currants, one and one-half pounds of citron, two tea-cupfuls of black molasses, two tea-cupfuls of wine, one cupful of brandy, two grated nutmegs, two tablespoonfuls of cloves, two tablespoonfuls of allspice, one tablespoonful of cinnamon. Before cutting the citron boil it, then use the water the citron was boiled in to put in the cake. The one-quarter of a pound of flour is used to roll the fruit
in. At the last add one gill of milk and two tablespoonfuls of baking powder.

Shark livers are used with those of the so-called "dogfish" for the extraction of an inferior grade of oil, which is employed principally as an applica-has a decidedly strong odor. It is sold locally in four-gallon tins at an average price of $1.30 per tin. It has not been discovered that the skin of the shark is used to any extent. In a dried form it has a small sale for use in polishing or smoothing wood.

A PRINCESS' CHOICE

By RUTH GRAHAM

There was once a king who governed so rich and was so powerful that an alliance with his family was considered desirable by all the other potentates. The king had one child, a daughter, who was of a marriageable age, but up to the time she was twenty years of age she had been kept away from the outside world, shut up in a wing of the palace. No one had even seen her excepting her family and a limited suit of attendants.

On her twentieth birthday her father sent a letter to several neighboring monarchs stating that his daughter would correspond with any man of royal blood suitable to become her husband and that she would marry some one of these correspondents, provided he was willing to marry her. He was not to see her till after he had been selected for her consort, and if after seeing her he was not minded to marry her he would be excused from doing so.

A number of princes entered the lists and wrote letters to the princess. Most of them expatiated upon her beauty, which they had never seen, comparing her to the full moon, to a fountain gushing in the sunlight, to the fairest flower that had ever grown upon the earth.

There was one correspondent, signing himself Carolus, who did not refer to any physical beauty that the princess might possess or to other attributes, such as modesty, good sense or a kind heart. He wrote of such traits as he would value in a wife. "If you possess these," he added, "you are a treasure to any man, but no man is worthy of you."

The princess threw the letters from those who flattered without having seen her into the wastebasket, but she was touched by the one from this man who valued mental rather than physical traits. She replied to his epistle, stating that she was most affected by his placing a high value on a sympathetic heart. She desired a husband who would be sympathetic with her, as she would sympathize with him.

Prince Carolus believed he had struck the chord that would win him the princess. So he wrote her a second epistle expatiating upon tenderness of heart, exalting it above all other virtues. He was sure that if he married her he would feel for her in all her troubles—for even royal persons have them—and he had no doubt that she would respond in kind.

The princess was about to invite Prince Carolus to an interview when a letter came from another royal personage who signed himself Alanthus. Alanthus said that, while he would gladly become the husband of a princess who would inherit a kingdom, he must know before he entered the lists for her hand what drawbacks there might be concerning her. He suspected from the fact that a suitor would not be permitted to see her that there was some physical blemish about her. Should such be the case any man who should meet her as a suitor would be placed in an embarrassing position. A refusal to marry her after seeing her would put a slight upon her. Alanthus would not care to be placed in such a position. If she would assure him that there was no physical blemish upon her he would then write her again. This letter caused the princess to state:

After Carolus had sent his letter the princess received a portrait of a young woman, one-half of whose face was covered with a marked disfigurement. It was a red and purple birthmark. Carolus naturally inferred that it was a likeness of the princess. It ended the correspondence between them, for he never wrote her again. That sympathy for the unfortunate which he had spoken of so positively did not stand the test to which it had been put.

Anthus also received a portrait. It represented a woman neither beautiful nor homely, though the face was not devoid of character. He, too, inferred that he had been sent a likeness of the princess. When he had made up his mind what to do in the matter he wrote her a letter stating that he had received a portrait which he presumed to be hers, that he had been favorably impressed with it and suggested that they meet and get acquainted.

The princess replied that they would better correspond for awhile before meeting in order to learn of each other's good, bad or indifferent qualities. For several months they wrote each other, and then the princess sent a brief note stating that she had learned something about her suitor. He had shown himself a true man in deciding to put himself in a position to marry a woman because nature had laid upon her a physical blemish. She appointed a time for the meeting.

Anthus went to the palace expecting to see the woman whose likeness had been sent him. He met a different person. When the princess appeared he was thrilled. She was radiantly beautiful.

The princess married Alanthus, who turned out to be a young king who had just acceded to his throne, thus uniting in time the two kingdoms. At the wedding Prince Carolus appeared, and when he saw that the princess had sent him another portrait than her own he remonstrated with her.

"Did not your highness prove," she said, "that your boasted sympathy was assumed?"

RED BLOOD AMERICANISM IS COMING TO THE FRONT

Right now this Country is calling for men of stout hearts and sound bodies. It needs them to keep Old Glory triumphant and unsullied in the air.

The exigency now confronting us emphasizes, as nothing else could do, the importance of good health, both as an individual and national asset.

It gives point to the suggestion, often emanating from this office, that everybody should guard their health as a priceless possession. Great $10,000 Saddle Horse Stake For 1917 Kentucky State Fair Owners and Breeders Throughout the Country Interested In President Cohen's Ambitious Enterprise.

RICHLIEU KING, 1916.

HERMAN STRAUS & SONS' CO. CUP.

LEVY BROTHERS' CUP.

Two of the array of trophies offered in the great $10,000 five gaited saddle horse stake at the fifteenth annual Kentucky State Fair, the week of Sept. 10, are magnificent silver cups donated

HON. MAT S. COHEN, commissioner of agriculture and, by virtue of this office, president of the Kentucky State Fair, has secured a $10,000 five gaited saddle horse stake for the 1917 Kentucky State Fair to be held in Louisville the week of Sept. 10-15.

Commissioner Cohen, with the unanimous indorsement and enthusiastic support of the members of the state board of agriculture, was untiring in his efforts to secure the interest and co-operation of horse owners and breeders throughout the country, and his plans were crowned with splendid success. From nearly every city of any size in the United States letters have poured in upon the commissioner eulogizing his brilliant achievement and commending the vitalizing effect of such a project upon the horse interests of the country.

World Will Look to America.

The commissioner has made it known that this very motive inspired him in his efforts for this gigantic prize list, as it is his firm belief that at the close of the present disastrous and exhausting war all foreign nations will look to America for foundation stock and new blood and that this nation should prepare for the demand. At present he declares that the breeding operations of this country have ceased to an alarming extent and that just such inspiration as this hitherto unheard of stake is necessary to arouse the horsemen and breeders of the United States.

Entrance Fee Waived.

In addition to the magnitude of the prize money, the fact that any entrance fee is waived and the horse owner or breeder privileged to enter as many animals as he cares to nominate free of charge and that stable room and bedding are provided by the State Fair without cost to the owner is certain to attract the attention of the entire horse world and to make the five gaited saddle horse events of the 1917 Kentucky State Fair the most sensational saddle horse affair of the age.

The battle royal for the $10,000 in prizes will open Monday night, Sept. 10, with a grand prize total of $2,500 offered the five gaited saddle stallion of any age who bears off the championship honors of America in his sex class.

The prize money donated and set aside in this class is as follows:

How Prize Money Is Divided.

One thousand dollars to the horse winning first prize, $625 to the horse winning second prize, $375 to the horse winning third prize and $250 to the horse winning fourth prize. In addition to the first prize of $1,000 the saddle stallion proving champion of the country in his class will receive a sterling silver cup, on which will be engraved "Championship of America for five gaited saddle stallion, any age," and which will be valued at $250.

On Tuesday night of Fair week the mare division of the saddle horse stake will be shown under the same conditions and with the same amounts and divisions as in the stallion rings.

Wednesday night the exhibition of geldings will take place in identically the same manner and with the same divisions.

Saturday night the grand finale of the horse show will take place, when the four champions of America in their particular sex classes meet to compete for $2,500 in prize money and the title of grand champion of America. The money in the grand championship event will be divided the same as in the sex classes, and, in addition, the winner will receive a sterling silver trophy known and inscribed as the "Grand Championship of America for five gaited saddle stallion, mare or gelding of any age."

Judges Carefully Picked.

Entries for these stakes will close Aug. 1, and all nominations should be sent in immediately to Fount T. Kremer, secretary of the Kentucky State Fair, Republic building, Louisville.

Three judges will be selected to preside in these rings, the officials to be named by the State Board of Agriculture of Kentucky, the State Board of Agriculture of Missouri and the State Board of Agriculture of California. This guarantees judges of the highest integrity, ability and nation wide reputation among horsemen and officials eminently well suited to serve in the most spectacular and important horse event the world has ever known.

For catalogue or information address Fount T. Kremer, Secretary Kentucky State Fair, Sult 604 Republic Building, Louisville, Ky.

HOLSTEINS PROMINENT AT KENTUCKY STATE FAIR

Prize Money Doubled For the "Stars of the Show."

Holsteins will be one of the most prominent classes in the beef cattle department of the coming Kentucky State Fair, to be held in Louisville the week of Sept. 10. The prize list for this breed of efficient dairy performers has been doubled and now represents the interesting sum of $800.

All of the classes throughout the beef cattle department have been largely increased, but the Holstein aggregation bids fair to be the "stars of the show." A model dairy in operation is promised as an adjunct to the dairy cattle exhibition, and there will be new features of scientific dairy management marking the cattle exhibit of the fifteenth annual State Fair.

For catalogue or information address Fount T. Kremer, Secretary Kentucky State Fair, Sult 604 Republic Building, Louisville, Ky.

BIG SHOW FOR WOMEN PLANNED FOR STATE FAIR

One of the Most Creditable Exhibits in the Entire Gigantic Display.

Busy housewives and experts in arts and crafts are taking advantage of every moment in preparation for the showing to be made at the fifteenth annual Kentucky State Fair, to be held in Louisville the week of Sept. 10.

The Woman's department is naturally the most interesting portion of the State Fair to womankind and is likewise one of the most creditable exhibitions in the entire gigantic display.

The entry list for this department will close Aug. 27, and a "hurry up call" is issued by Kentucky State Fair Secretary Fount T. Kremer, Sult 604 Republic Building, Louisville.

OUR PARK.

"Breathes there a man with soul so dead, who never to himself hath said 'This is my own Park'." Yes this pretty little spot is claimed by all of us now, and we forget the cold water throwers who said, dogs would lie in it and cattle run thru it and boys play in it and eat water melon in it. No one has so little civic pride as to desecrate it in any way and all are proud of it. Mr. John Stormes is Custodian of the Park, seeing that the flowers are watered and taken care of, the grass cut and for which we all owe him a vote of thanks. Every stranger who comes thru town remarks upon its beauty, which is truly the bright spot in our humdrum life these torrid days.

CALL BY NUMBERS.

Several new operators have recently been put on duty in the Telephone exchange which necessitates that all patrons when wishing connection must ask for the number wanted and not the name of the party. You will find a directory at or near your phone and if you don't remember the number wanted, consult the directory, they are all listed there alphabetically and easily located. Only three numbers are not in the new directory, which are Sam Carpenter, No 390-Q, The Lancaster Roller Mills, No 86, and Mr Griggs No. 347-G. Operators are instructed to answer by number only, which saves both time and trouble to the operator, as they would have to look up the number. Several operators have taken sick in the last few days and their places have been filled with others not familiar with the work here.

Give them a little time and remember there are others who are calling for connections beside you.

DR. DAWES DELIVERS

FAREWELL SERMON

Will Come To Garrard.

Members of every church in the city composed the congregation which heard Sunday morning the farewell sermon of Dr. B. A. Dawes who has completed ten years as pastor of the Baptist church. Dr. Dawes' resignation was accepted several weeks ago but it did not take effect until Sunday. His sermon was an earnest and forceful one and touched the hearts of those in the audience. In his opening remarks he stated that he wanted to bring a few words of comfort and cheer to the congregation. In a closing prayer he asked for divine guidance for the church in selecting his successor. Dr. Dawes came here from Louisville in 1907 to take up his duties as pastor of the Baptist church and since that time has stamped his personality upon everyone in Georgetown with whom he has had contact. He has been professor of the Bible at the College for several years and is known as one of the prominent Bible students of the State. His absence will be mourned by hundreds of local citizens and by students at the College who have been instructed by him. Dr. Dawes and his family will leave in the winter for their farm in Garrard county, which will be their future home.---Georgetown News.

TO THE CITIZENS OF GARRARD COUNTY.

For some time before the expiration of the time limit fixed for filing petitions to become a candidate before the primary, a number of representative citizens of our county urged me to become a candidate on the Republican ticket for the office of County Judge.

At first it seemed to me that I could not afford to enter the race, as I am no politician and do not feel that I desire to become one, but after watching the trend of political events in our County, and with absolutely no desire for any personal gain whatever, I decided to enter the race, in order that if elected I may be of some service in giving to our county as best I know how, a strictly business administration. Realizing the grave responsibility that this office holds for any man who fills it, and knowing that the citizens of our county are deeply interested therein, I will briefly state the position I take on some of the questions that I believe are of the most interest to our people today.

As I believe the subject of road maintenance and improvement is the most important question that confronts our fiscal court at the present time, and believing that if the administration of our road system is used as a political asset, no real improvement can ever be effected. Therefore, I pledge you that if I am elected your County Judge, the entire road system of our County, will be taken entirely out of politics, and that every dollar appropriated for the purpose, will go for the actual work of upbuilding our roads, and not into the pockets of professional politicians, and vote getters, in the various precincts of our county.

That all contracts for work on our roads shall be let with wide open doors, or better still before the Court House door, that the public may know exactly how their business is handled.

That every contract shall be let to the lowest bidder, regardless of who he may be, or to what party he may belong, said bidders to give sufficient bond to secure the performance of their contract, and a competent road Supervisor will see that all work is done according to specifications, and both, roads and Supervisor will be under the strict supervision of your Fiscal Court.

Should I be elected, politics will play no part in any judicial act of your County Judge, for it seems to me that during this serious period through which we are passing all partisanship should be laid aside and only efficiency, and economy, in the conduct of our public affairs should be our aim.

If elected I will do all in my power to reduce the indebtedness of our County, and also to avoid the incumbrance of any other debts. At this time when the people are demanding, and rightly so, as I believe, that we have temperance men to fill the various offices of our county, I only ask you to look to my past life as an index of what you may expect of the future.

It is needless for me to state that I favor County, State, and Nation-wide prohibition, and at all times will use every influence in my power in securing same, and in enforcing any such laws that may be passed.

Will also promise you that if elected, no liquor known to me will ever enter my office.

I expect to make a clean, straight fight for this election, and if the policies outlined here meet with your approval, no matter to which party you may belong, your support is earnestly solicited, and will be deeply appreciated.

A PATRIOTIC MOTHER.

This war is "God's laundry" Mrs. Mary J. Lamb, of Chicago, who has given three of her four sons to the army and navy, said in a letter which was before a Chicago exemption board recently.

"I asked for a special permit for my sixteen-year-old son who was in college and enlisted him in the marine corps on April 1," wrote Mrs. Lamb.

"Another son is also in the marine corps and a third in the army."

"A fourth son's greatest sorrow is that he is too young, and only a quartermaster in the Scorch cadets of Notre Dame University."

"It makes me disgusted with womanhood to hear so many selfish mothers voice their terrors. No mother loves her family more than I do, but I look upon this war as God's laundry."

POLLARD.

On Friday morning at eight o'clock, at the home of his sister, Mrs. Joe Kelley, in Danville, the kind and loving spirit of Robert Bright Pollard passed from this earthly home to that beautiful realm of peace and happiness.

He was operated on about two weeks ago, at the Danville Hospital for a complication of diseases with the hope of his ultimate recovery, but all that medical skill and loving relatives could do was of no avail.

Robert was one of the best young men in the Hubble neighborhood, of good christian character, industrious and popular with whom he was thrown. He was eighteen years old at the time of his death, and while it is hard to see a young man taken in the prime of his life yet we know his loved ones loss is his eternal gain.

He is survived by his parents Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Pollard, together with five sisters and two brothers to whom deep and sincere sympathy goes out in this hour of trial. His sisters are: Mrs. J. D. Hatcher and Mrs. Lon Bourne of Lancaster, Mrs. Joe Kelley of Danville, and Misses Agnes and Alice Pollard of Hubble, the two brothers are Messrs Frank and Jim Pollard of Hubble.

Interment took place in the Lancaster cemetery Sunday afternoon.

CANNING ACTIVITIES.

The work of canning fruits and vegetables goes on throughout the State apparently without cessation.

The two weeks' canning campaign, conducted at the Western State Normal School in Bowling Green the past month, was highly successful, and members of the classes are now extending the instruction in communities.

A most successful period of canning, covering two weeks, was held at the State Normal School at Richmond Ky., also under direction of Miss Davis, during the first part of July. This was followed by a week of classes in drying and "evaporating" fruits and vegetables, and the "community canning" work was inaugurated, to continue throughout the remainder of the summer. The community canning activities are conducted thus: Any householder with an excess of fruit or vegetables is invited to bring the products to the Normal School, and they will be canned on the spot, the householder furnishing only the containers. The supply of canned goods secured by the school will be stored away to provide the dormitories next winter.

About 125 students of the summer school were enrolled in the canning classed at Richmond.

The Normal School garden covers five acres, and is maintained by the agricultural department of the school.

The school at Berea, which has an enrollment of 1,300 boarding pupils, expects to can 20,000 gallons of fruit and vegetables this season. One building is devoted entirely to canning, and a "canner", which has a capacity of 150 gallons a day, will be secured at very low prices, and the canning will be done there and the fruit conveyed back to Berea.

A WORD FOR 'HELLO' GIRLS

I sat in the the central office of a telephone company and watched the operators at their work. Their eyes were fixed on the board noting the numbers as the calls came, while their fingers flew in making the connections.

At times one would be behind in keeping up with the calls but not a second was lost in effort to reach the waiting one.

I said to myself: "Never more will I get impatient when central does not answer promptly. She may be racing as fast as her fingers can carry her to my call."

We go to the doctor and wait our turn, go to the theatre window, barber shop or voting booth; but if central does not answer in five seconds we want to know if she's asleep or reading a book.

Let us remember, "there are others" and wait our turn. The continued beating of bells on the ear drum is hard on the nerves. Be more patient and pleasant at the 'phone if you would be just to the telephone girl.---Geo W. Bain. 2t

Don't Buy a Wagon Until You Have Seen the Columbus

Before you decide on any wagon, examine the Columbus. Strongly built of the best possible material the Columbus wagon gives the most satisfactory service for the longest period of years. There is no secret in the notably long life of the Columbus wagon. It is the result of the methods employed in construction. There is no wood in this wagon which has not been air-dried under shelter from one to two years.

The axles and the spokes of the wheels are hickory; the boards, bolsters and sandboards are oak, and the bottom of the box is straight grained flawless pine. These are just a few examples of the care which is taken to make this wagon as reliable as possible. The result is that the Columbus wagon is unbeatable in reliability and endurance. Come in and examine it for yourself. We know you will be pleased.

Stanley Herron, who recently enlisted at Fort Thomas and is now an ambulance driver in the Medical Corps and stationed at Syracuse, N. Y. writes interestingly to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Herron of this city, and says:

"It would be impossible indeed for me to try to tell all the conditions existing in the army and about which most civilians know so little. A soldier's life is made interesting by the fact that we don't know what's coming next. We may leave in a few days for a few days for Ft. Benj. Harrison or we may go to Ft. Oglethorpe, Georgia. Whether you will like army life or not depends largely upon one's attitude. Obey all orders and you will be treated fine, disobey and you cannot imagine the extent of punishment. If you are put under a good officer as we are and with a good bunch of fellows you will find serving your country a pleasure."

Butter for Stains.
Rub butter on tea or coffee stains afterward washing the garment in ordinary hot soapsuds. This will remove fruit stains also; in fact, almost any stain except ink can be eliminated in this way.

Plaster For Cracks.
Use vinegar instead of water to mix your plaster of paris. The resultant mass will be like putty and will not "set" for twenty or thirty minutes, whereas if you use water the plaster will become hard almost immediately, before you have time to use it. Push into the cracks and smooth it off nicely with a table knife.

Paraffined Paint Cans.
After housecleaning, if one has partly used cans of paint or varnish left over, which would soon dry up and become useless, try putting them into small cans and cover with melted paraffin. They will keep indefinitely and can be used as needed.

"UNCLE DAVE" ROSS

Nominated for Jailer has no opposition in the final race, which makes his "calling and election sure."

TO MY DEMOCRATIC FRIENDS

With a heart full of gratitude I wish to thank those who supported me in the primary for the nomination for County Judge. I appreciate the work you did for me and desire to impress upon you the further fact that I am a Democrat and always will be. C. A. Arnold.

HARLAN WINS.

The Senatorial race became very exciting during the two days following the primary last Saturday before it was definitely known who was the winner, so close was the race between Harlan and Kauffman. Harlan carried his home county by 1,038, while Kauffman carried Garrard by 882, Lincoln by 12 and Casey by 146, leaving a majority of 58 for Harlan. Nearly 7,000 votes were polled in this race.

TO MY FRIENDS

AND DEMOCRATS.

Although defeated in my race for the nomination for County Court Clerk, permit me to thank you for the liberal support given me in the past primary. You will find me ready to support the nominee and use my influence in securing his election. J. Bruce Lawson.

TO MY GARRARD

COUNTY FRIENDS:

I desire to express my sincere thanks to the democrats of my home county for so splendidly supporting me in my race. I of course regret that I did not win this race but I have no feeling of censure or blame for the people of my home county. You did all and more than I could have asked or expected and if I never receive an office at your hands I will always feel grateful to you for what you have done. I also want to thank others who were interested in my behalf but were not voters in this primary. It is indeed gratifying to know that one is thought well of at home where he is known. We have in the person of Mr. Harlan a fine gentleman and I know we will all do what we can to help him win in November. H. Clay Kauffman.

FINE YIELD OF WHEAT.

Mr. G. A. Bowling, of lower Garrard is delivering this week his crop of wheat from fifty acres which he has sold to Hudson, Hughes and Farnau, of this city for $2.50 a bushel. Mr. Bowling tells us he has threshed from the fifty acres, 1,700 bushels, which makes an average for the entire crop of 34 bushels to the acre. Eighteen acres of this land was broken out of clover, which yielded over 40 bushels to the acre. The variety was the "Harvest King" and will be much sought after for seeding purposes.

ORDINANCE.

Be it ordained by the City Council of the City of Lancaster, that it shall be unlawful for any person or persons, to take or remove any cattle or live stock of any kind, from the Public Pound or any place used as such, such cattle or live stock, having been impounded by any employee or agent of the city, without the authority or consent of the marshal of the city. That it shall be unlawful for any person or persons to take or remove or attempt to take or remove from the person or control of any employee of the city or their agents, any cattle or live stock found running at large in the city limits.

Any person violating this ordinance shall be fined not less than $5.00 nor more than $25.00.

A CASE OF CONSTANCY

By ETHEL HOLMES

The attention of the people of the United States was concentrated on preparations for an entrance into the great world's war. Mothers were giving up their sons, young wives their husbands and girls their lovers. The chief places of interest were the camps where officers were being trained to command the expeditionary forces that were to be sent to the theater of war.

"Auntie," said Miss Lucy Marston, a girl of seventeen, "take me to Camp — I don't care to go to the seashore, as usual, this summer. I should die of ennui. I want to go where they are drilling these young men who are to be captains and lieutenants in the army that is going abroad."

Auntie was Miss Edith Sands, a maiden lady of thirty-three who had been a belle in her day and whose beauty had ripened rather than decayed. She consented to chaperon her niece to a summer inn not far from Camp — and since they went there in their car they were within striking distance of the drill grounds of 2,000 or 3,000 young men who were being turned from citizens into soldiers. Miss Marston was looking for a romance; Miss Sands was interested principally in putting her niece in the way of one.

The ladies arrived at the inn in time for dinner and proposed to visit the camp the next day. While they were sitting on the porch an officer in the uniform of a major of infantry drove up to the inn, alighted and during the evening took a seat near them.

"Ask him," said Lucy to her aunt, "at what hour they admit visitors to the camp."

Miss Sands asked the officer the question. At the sound of her voice he turned at once toward her. After he had given her the information she desired she remarked that she felt at home among army people, since she had as a young girl visited West Point and there met a great many officers and their families.

"How about cadets?" asked the major.

"I also met a number of those young men who in July and August of each year turn their attention from their military studies to preying upon the hearts of the girls who invade the academy grounds at that season. The standard of honor in other respects is so high that they strike an average by letting it down to zero in their affairs of the heart."

"I will admit," replied the major, "that among young persons there is less care exercised in avoiding damage in that respect, but I doubt if there is any more blame to be attached to the cadets of West Point than other men. Besides, I believe the girls who go there are as inclined to heart smashing as the young men."

Miss Lucy Marston was disappointed in her visit to Camp — for the reason that the young men being trained there were so busy with their work or so tired when they got any leisure that they had no time for entertaining visitors. Major Rathbone, however, found opportunity to visit Miss Sands and quite often spent an evening with her on the porch of the inn, occasionally bringing with him some one from the camp to entertain her niece, for the major preferred having Miss Sands to himself, which he could not do unless Lucy were provided for.

There was something in Miss Sands that drew the major, something that smacked of his youth. It seemed that her voice reminded him of some of the many girls with whom he had associated long ago. Then, too, there was a certain toss of her head that suggested to him some girl who in that way expressed dissent. The major was falling in love with Miss Sands, and he could not tell whether he was drawn to a handsome maiden lady or the memory of one he had known in the past.

Major Rathbone proposed to Miss Sands, and when he did so she thus replied:

"I assure you, major, that I feel highly honored by this second proposal of yours and am quite sure —"

"Second proposal?"

"Yes. You proposed to me just twelve years ago this summer on the porch of the West Point hotel."

The major was equal to the occasion.

"From my first meeting you here," he said, "I felt that I had loved you and that I was true to that love. I have proved by this second proposal that constancy which is conspicuous among the officers of the United States army."

The lady laughed.

"And you have also proved that assurance, that readiness, that resource — whatever you choose to call it — which is also conspicuous among the officers of the United States army in extricating yourself from a dilemma."

"Do you mean to say," he rejoined, "that you considered a West Point proposal of a cadet bona fide?"

"It matters not whether it is bona fide or not provided one of the parties to the affair is disposed to consider it so."

There was just enough of feeling in her voice as she said this to convince the major that she was referring to herself. He succeeded in satisfying her that whatever might have been the intent of his first proposal his second was serious.

And so it was that the girl who went to Camp — for a romance got none, while her chaperon secured a prize.

"Changing Dates" on Hens.

Cold storage is not the only solution of the egg problem. Early hatched pullets of the American breeds that begin to lay in the fall is one that promises to make good. In order to "change the dates" on hens an incubator will probably be needed.

Picturesque Kieff.

The most beautiful city in Russia is said to be, not Petrograd or Moscow, which lack perspective, the one lying flat at the level of the Neva, and the other situated on an insignificant stream, but Kieff, the ancient capital of the Cossacks, which lies on the heights overlooking the rolling Dnieper.

The Majestic Magnolia.

There is no suggestion of timidity or coyness about the magnolia. It never appears in the role of offering an apology for being alive. No explanations are required. Like an independent, self-respecting citizen it faces the world unafraid. In kingly majesty it stands, an inspiring masterpiece of grandeur, an unparalleled display of nature's sublime handiwork.

Earth and Moon.

Fifty moons would equal the earth in volume, although it would take 81 times the mass of the moon to equal the mass of our planet as the lunar density is only six-tenths that of the earth. The entire surface of the moon about equals North and South America in area, though about 40 per cent of this surface we can never see, since our satellite always turns the same face toward us.

To Keep Water Cold.

An excellent way to keep water cold a long time with little ice is to take a pitcher of ice and water and set in the center of a newspaper; then, by gathering the four corners at the top and bringing the ends together with a strong rubber band around them to hold close together, the air is excluded. A pitcher of water treated in this manner will stand all through the night with very little perceptible melting of the ice, and even after the ice does melt the water will keep cold a long time.

Learning From Birds.

Many wise suggestions come to one who observes the ways and traits of birds. Study of birds well repays the effort it demands. Respect for animal life and bird life humanizes us. The greatest and best of mankind have been tender and loving to animal life. The more we become friends of the birds the more we shall feel the force of the text. "Not one sparrow shall fall to the ground without your Father. Fear ye not, therefore, ye are of more value than many sparrows."—Milwaukee Journal.

Area of the United States.
The area of Alaska is 590,884 square miles and of the United States, exclusive of Alaska and insular possessions, is 3,616,484 square miles.

Truthful Girl.
He—"Nothing could ever come between us, could it, dear?" She—"I can't think of a single thing, unless I should happen to become engaged to some other man before we get married."

Then and Now.
Whereas in 1725 the mail from London to Lisbon took 22 days in transit, and according to Daniel Defoe was a "branch of the revenue not very much valued," it now occupies but 48 hours, and is a financial success.

Why Ammonia Cleans Clothes.
Ammonia, the great spot remover of the American people, is really a gas dissolved in water. It belongs to the alkali family, and on account of its mineral origin is the foe of all oils and grease, which explains the easy way it disposes of spots that soap and water cannot affect. Bath ammonia is a fine cleanser.

Queer Customs of British Navy.
There are very many ancient customs in the British navy, some of which are "wrapt in mystery." For instance, when officers go aboard or leave their ship, it is invariably the case that the junior steps into the boat before his senior, although at the end of the journey the order is reversed. This curious custom is as old as the navy itself.

Careless Management.
If the term "carelessness" must be used, it might well be applied to management which permits hazards to exist; but surely not to the injured themselves, for self-preservation is the first law of nature, and it is inconceivable that anyone with rare exception, should wilfully permit or cause injury to themselves.—H. Weaver, Secretary, in Industrial Management.

England's First Flag.
The early inhabitants of England, like those of other countries, used emblematic devices of one kind or another. That of the Saxons was a white horse. The introduction of flags into England is ascribed to St. Augustine, the missionary, and his followers, who after the convention of King Ethelbert entered Canterbury in procession chanting and bearing small banners.

Where Maidens Do Wooing.
The maiden of Burma lights a "love-lamp" in her window when the desired one passes at night, and if he is willing, he speedily conveys the glad information to her. When the Sumatran girl has reached twenty-five—and her life up to then has been passed in strict seclusion—and no one has come to ask for her hand, she attends to the matter in her own way, dresses in red, and goes out twice a day, until successful, to find a husband.

Fear Spiritual Weakness.
Fear is simply spiritual weakness, which may be compared to nervous weakness of the body. In other words, it is lack of spiritual sense of strength. And, as you know, spiritual strength comes from right morals, just as physical strength comes from right living. A keen sense of being right drives out all fear. Hence a certain triumph of the defenders of right over their opponents, even in spite of superior numbers.

PRIZE LIST OF $1,000 FOR STATE FAIR COUNTY EXHIBITS

Through the efforts of Commissioner of Agriculture Mat S. Cohen the agricultural products of Kentucky will occupy a very conspicuous and distinctive position at the fifteenth annual Kentucky State Fair, to be held in Louisville the week of Sept. 10. This year the prize list for county exhibits has been placed at the remarkable figure of $1,000, and in consequence the attention of the entire agricultural interests of the state will be centered on this particular feature of the big annual celebration. The prize list was announced the first part of the year as reaching the sum of $700. This sum was increased recently through the efforts of Mr. Wood, Chief of the Louisville chemical works and of the agricultural committee of the board of trade. He induced the board of trade members to vote an additional sum of $200, and his firm to add another $100 to this amount, thus securing for the county exhibitors of the state the unprecedented sum total of $1,000. As the list now stands the county winning first prize will receive $400 in cash, the county winning second prize will receive $250, and the winner of third prize will receive $150. This list the three prizes from $250, $150 and $100 to the above figures and gives to the Kentucky State Fair the largest prize list for county exhibits ever offered by any state fair in the United States with the exception of Dallas, Tex., which is the largest and richest fair in the country and has been in existence twice as long as the Kentucky State Fair. In addition to the cash awards for the best county exhibits, Colonel E. H. Taylor, Jr., of Frankfort, Ky., will give to the county winning first prize a handsome sterling silver cup, which will be known as the "Old Taylor cup" and which will be worth $100.

To the man or woman working up interest in the county exhibit winning a prize will be given a "booster's award" of $50 for the representative of the county winning first prize, $25 for the representative of the county winning second prize and $15 for the representative of the third prize winner.

For catalogue or information address Fount T. Kremer, Secretary Kentucky State Fair, Suite 604 Republic Building, Louisville, Ky.

Make your plans to visit the fifteenth annual Kentucky State Fair, to be held in Louisville the week of Sept. 10. This is "doing your bit" toward stimulating and encouraging agriculture and stock raising in accordance with the government's call.

A Bluff In The Aegean Sea

By F. A. MITCHEL

During the second year of the pan-European war I commanded a 2,000 ton tramp steamer called the Ajax.

I left Smyrna in August, 1915, with a cargo of rugs and other Asiatic goods for the port of New York. I was obliged to steam through the Greek archipelago, which I knew afforded fine nesting for corsairs. I did not fear Greeks, but I dreaded Asiatics from the opposite eastern coast. If I could get through to the open Mediterranean sea I would feel a reasonable expectation of getting my cargo to America and a large profit.

One day while passing between two Greek islands I was called from the noon meal by the lookout, who reported a small craft resembling a tug putting out from a cove and steering a course with the evident intention to head us off. Through my glass I saw that she carried the German flag.

Now, I did not believe that any German craft would be sailing in those waters, which were occupied by the allied fleets, especially the British. If this one were really German I was of the opinion that she was a tender for a submarine. However, I could only wait and learn. I kept on my course, watching in every direction for a periscope, till the tug—for such she proved to be—was close on to my bows. Through my glass I could see on her deck a number of men in sailor costume who might be in the German service; but, judging from their swarthy complexions, they were Asiatics.

One man who appeared to be commander wore the uniform of a German naval officer, but I believed he had obtained it without having a commission. He was whiter than his men and might have been a European. One thing I noticed particularly—there was no appearance of cannon. Whatever armament there was doubtless consisted of such weapons as could be wielded by individuals. However, while I looked a port was opened and the nose of a little barker appeared. It was as terrifying as a bull pup. I did not believe it could sink us, though it might put our machinery out of commission.

With its appearance the commander of the tug called through a megaphone something in German which one of my men who understood the language thought to be a demand for surrender. A submarine was ready to blow us out of water. We were given ten minutes to take to the boats.

Never was there a more palpable case of bluff. There was no submarine, nothing which could be relied on to sink us. We were in danger of being boarded and overpowered by Asiatic pirates playing the submarine act. Though I was not deceived, I confess it looked to me that the only chance for our lives was to take to the boats and leave our cargo to the pirates. There were a few small arms aboard, but not enough of them or men to use them to put up an adequate defense.

But we had a means of defense that I had often thought of using in case of being attacked by the small enemies that infest certain Asiatic coasts. I determined to try it now. I had plenty of hose, and I ordered it attached to the steam cocks of the boiler. There were two hose which could be used separately. I asked for more time from the pirate and was told that not a minute would be granted. So I ordered the men to pretend to begin the work of lowering the boats, and they made a great ado with the ropes, but accomplished nothing. During the few minutes they were thus engaged we were attaching the hose to the boiler and running the nozzles on deck where they were hidden under the gunwale. When all was ready I ordered the men away from the boats, and word was shouted to the pirate that if he wanted our ship to come and take it or if he intended to blow us up to do so.

This was evidently not in his calculations. There was a conference among them; then we could see arms brought on deck. It was evident that they intended to board us. Meanwhile they ran up against us and were about to lash to us when I took a hose and, pointing it down at them, sent a stream of scalding water among them, which caused them to desist and get out of range as soon as possible.

A number of them had been scalded just enough to make them furious with pain, and, after taking time to consider, they launched a rowboat carried on their deck and manned it, and while the tug came under our bows the rowboat approached our stern. There was some protection for them both fore and aft, but as soon as a man appeared at either point he received a dose of steam that sent him howling back, and some of them were knocked into the brine.

This plan having failed, both boarding parties retreated and, joining forces on the tug, began to pepper us with their little barker. I sent men below to plug holes that might be made under water; but, fearing damage to our boiler which would put us at their mercy, I determined to assume the offensive. Pointing the vessel straight at the tug before she could get out of the way, I ran alongside of her and drove every man below with scalding water.

It was now evident that I had mastered them, and, putting on all steam, I showed them a clean pair of heels. In a few hours I was clear of the archipelago and in due time reached New York, where I sold my cargo at a splendid profit.
